

Do more with Microsoft Teams

Industry trends

Business pains

Many chat and communication tools aren't searchable and lack persistent threads.

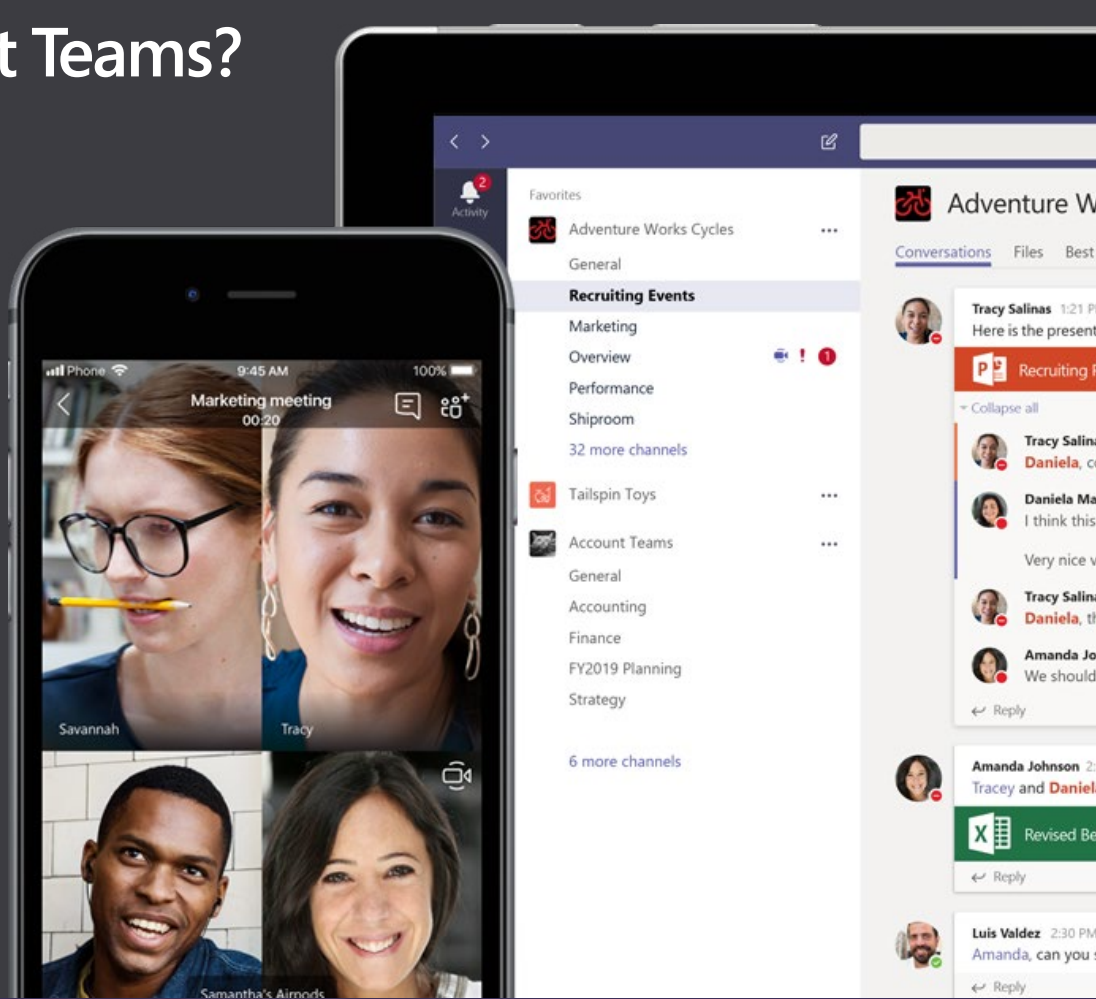

Co-authoring files via email attachment can lead to errors, duplication, and version-control issues.

Teams are stressed and unsatisfied by meetings, which are often difficult to schedule, longer than planned, and unproductive.

Team members often need to jump between chat, calls, and face-to-face meetings, but lack the tools to do so seamlessly and transparently.

Why Microsoft Teams?

- Chat
- Collaborate
- Meetings
- Calling

Proof points

Communicate through threaded and persistent chat with additional features. With Teams, you can chat, call, and meet across devices, including mobile, and you can share files while chatting.

Streamline collaboration and improve teamwork. Search for content, files, and people, and track project chats, notes, files, and meetings all in one place.

Support both private and channel meetings in more productive, real-time meetings with: High-definition audio, web, and video conferencing, and presentation and application sharing.

Connect with anyone through phone systems. Take advantage of advanced call management, including call routing, auto attendant, and reporting.

Talk to us about Teams

If you think Teams could benefit your business contact us on 01383 722 225. Or download our ebook to learn more.

¹ ClearCompany survey
² IDC, 2015
³ Collaborative Overload, 2016
⁴ Microsoft funded research, 2018